

I hereby by consent and authorize the performance of the following:

Wellness Exam - Before undergoing an anesthesia, the doctor will perform an exam to assess the patient's physical condition. The exam fee will be waived if the pet has had an exam within 14 days.

IV Fluid Therapy is important to the maintenance of homeostasis during anesthesia and provides venous access for supportive therapy, for maintenance of anesthesia, and for cardiopulmonary resuscitation. Imbalances may occur because of blood loss, drying of exposed tissues, and low blood pressure effects of some anesthetic agents. The cost is $39.25 and there will be a small shaved portion on your pet's leg. Fluids are required on all dogs less than 10 pounds and all pets 8 years of age and over

Yes, I want my pet to have fluids during surgery. (Doctor's recommendation)
 No, I decline fluid therapy

Blood Work prior to undergoing anesthesia is recommended to detect internal issues that may not be readily evident upon physical examination. The cost is $48.20. This screen is required on all dogs less than 10 pounds and all pets 8 years of age and over.

Yes, I do want the Blood Screen. (Doctor's recommendation)
 No, I do not want the Blood Screen

E-Collar - Pets that lick or bite at the surgery site will go home with an E-Collar for their protection. Some pets will ignore the site until many hours after discharge. For this reason, we recommend that you consider purchasing one before you leave to avoid the cost of Emergency Care.

Yes, I would like an E-Collar. $13.00
 Inflatable E-collar (if applicable) $18-$35
 No, I do not want an E-Collar

Mass Removals - Histopath

Sometimes samples are recommended to be submitted for biopsy at a diagnostic laboratory. There, a veterinary pathologist will examine the sample and make a diagnosis. Results are generally available within several days. The cost for this is $104

If the doctor recommends a histopath, would you like us to submit one?

Yes, submit the sample (doctor's recommendation)
 No, I would not like the sample submitted

Pain Management and Antibiotics

Our staff not only cares about the care your pet receives at our clinic, but also the comfort they are in at home, for this reason, we require pain relief with all surgeries. Medications will be given during the procedure via injection as well as sending an oral formulation home with your pet following surgery. Antibiotics will be discussed by the doctor, and dispensed if necessary.

Laser Therapy

During K-Laser Therapy, infrared laser light improves the healing process. It increases the release of endorphins (natural painkillers), decreases inflammation, which helps return tissue to a normal state, and restores metabolic function. This is included in all surgeries.
